

Mrs Fox's Creepy Box Part 4 - skulls

This belongs to a beaver.

This skull has its lower jaw so you can see its teeth - molars and incisors.

Next is a baby goat - a kid.

Big flat teeth to chew anything they fancy eating and little horns.

A sheep's skull

Look at these huge teeth for grinding grass.

This is the smallest and most delicate skull I have.
It belongs to a blackbird. You can see the beak.

Here is a wild rabbit skull.

In the second picture you can see where the teeth fit in. Can you see the two holes at the front?

I think the beak here will give you a clue!

Yes, it's a duck

Can you see where the eyes would go?

Here they all are in a line so you can compare the sizes.
